

This is in reference to NOI regarding FCC consideration of Broadband over Power Line Carrier communications. I have been an FCC licensed amateur radio operator for 57 years. Amateur radio has been, and continues to be, a very important part of my life and I would strongly oppose any action that would impair my ability to enjoy this hobby. It has already been demonstrated in Japan and Europe that BPL transmissions would seriously interfere with HF communications when the two are in near proximity and I would recommend that the FCC seriously consider rejecting any move by special interests to permit BPL communications.
